Sterling Hits Record Low on Arab Move

LONDON, Dec. 10 (IHT) .-The pound sterling fell to record lows against other currencies today, reaching so low a rate against the dollar that the Bank of England intervened to support the British currency.

The main reason was a report, later confirmed, that Saudi Arabia no longer wants pounds in payment for oil and that Arab states generally have ended investment in U.K. Treasury bills. Story Page 9.

Congress Votes to Give U.S. Hold on Nixon's Tapes, Paper

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (WP). -A bill giving the federal govern-ment permanent custody of and control over all of former President Richard Nixon's tapes and documents was passed by the House and Senate yesterday and rushed to the White House to avoid a pocket veto by President Ford after Congress adjourns

The bill covers millions of documents of Mr. Nixon's presidency plus hundreds of hours of re-corded tapes of White House conversations during his term. EEC, Britain Reach An Accord at Summit

By James Goldsborough

PARIS, Dec. 11 (IHT),-The nine members of the European Economic Community agreed late tonight on a formula that satisfied British demands for a rene-gotiation of its EEC membership treaty. Shortly before midnight, after a day of difficult negotiations at the EEC summit meeting. French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing told the press that a compromise agreement had reached.

"We have asked the Council of Ministers and the [European] Commission to draw up a plan as soon as possible for corrective mechanisms that would avoid nnacceptable conditions arising for Britain or any other member of the community," he said.

By accepting that wording.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson pledged himself to campaign to keep Britain in the community. In a speech in London last weekend, Mr. Wilson said that if he got the terms he wanted, he would recommend to the British people, prior to a national vote on continued membership, that Britain remain in the community. The vote is to be held before next Oct. 10.

"Mr. Wilson said he didn't want renegotiation either of the Treaty of Rome or of Britain's membership treaty, but rather a revision of the terms of the accord," Mr. Giscard d'Estaing said tonight. Mr. Wilson came here arguing

House to Vote Next Rockefeller Nomination Wins Approval, 90-7, in the Senate

By Spencer Rich

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (WP) .- The Secate approved the nomination of Nelson Rockefeller to be the nation's 41st vice-president by a vote of 90 to 7 today.

The action now moves to the House, where the Judiciary Commintee is expected to approve the nomination this week, with the full House voting next week. Both chambers must approve it under the Constitution's 25th Amendment. Pipal confirmation of Mr. Rockefeller will mean that for the first time in U.S. history neither the president nor the vice-president reached their offices by the election process. Those senators voting against the nomination were Republicans Barry Goldwater of Arizona, William Scott of Virginia and Jesse Helms of North Carolina, plus Democrats Birch Bayh of Indiana. James Abourezk of South Dakota, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Howard Metzeuhaum of Ohio.

However, the big middle group in the Senate backed Mr. Rockefeller overwhelmingly, assuring his winning margin. Many senators who voted for Mr. Rockefeller said that they

These gifts were seen by some senators, including Sen. Goldwater, as an attempt to purchase political influence.

However, Mr. Rockefeller said he made the gifts either to enable excellent public servants to remain or come into the employ of New York State, or simply as personal help to a person he greatly admired and valued. He denied any corrupt intent and the Rules Committee concluded that there was no direct evidence of any.

Bill Gives U.S. Hold on Tapes

(Continued from Page 1) Congress still in session when it expired, Mr. Ford would be forced to send it back if he wished to veto it. This would give Congress a chance to override the veto. If Congress were out of session when the 10-day period expired, he could kill it simply by failing to sign it and an attempt by Congress to override his veto would not be possible.

The bill does not take a direct position on whether the tapes and documents legally belong to Mr. Nixon. It leaves that up to the courts to decide if Mr. Nixon should choose to bring a suit de claring he was deprived of his property. However, the bill does say that if a court finds that it deprives a person of private property rights, appropriation of funds for compensation is authorized.

A second bill affecting Mr. Nixon won partial Senate approval yesterday. It provides $200,000 in pensions and staff aid for the former president, in place of the $850,000 originally asked for by the Ford administration.

Black Nationalist Is Optimistic

SALISBURY, Rhodesia, Dec. 10 (Reuters).—More talks between Rhodesian African nationalist groups and the government were forecast here today by the African National Council's secretarygeneral, Gordon Chavunduka.

He was speaking after returning from the Zambian capital, Lusaka, where he was a member of the ANC delegation at talks on the Rhodesian constitutional problem. The government reected the Africans stand at the alks.

"We fully expect more talks this is not the end." Mr. Chavunduka said. But he declined to comment on the current status of the talks. The ANC executive will meet here Sunday to hear from the the ANC's six-man team in Lusaka had returned here last night by air. The ANC leader, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, and the ANC publicity secretary, Edison Sithole—who is a detained—will return either to-

Mr. Chavunduka rejected the claim of Ian Smith, the Rhodesian Prime Minister, that the Tansanian President, Julius Nysrere, had been instrumental in the breakdown of last week's talks in Lusaka.

"This is not true. Mr. Smith is misinformed. In fact, Dr. Nyerere made a lot of sacrifices to be in Lusaka for the talks when pressing things could have kept him at home, Mr.

Mr. Smith had pinned much of the hiame for the collapse of the latest constitutional talks on the Tanzanian leader and on "extremist elemente" among black Rhodesian nationalists.

In a television interview made public in a broadcast here today, Mr. Smith also said that he could not predict if there was going to be any progress toward settlement over the next year. 'And if there isn't, I am happy to go on the way we are going now," he added.

Recognizing that this could happen to other members as well, the Nine were able to accept the compromise wording tonight.

Asked if he thought Britain would choose to stay in the community, Mr. Giscard d'Estaing replied tonight: "The British people will decide, by referendum I understand correctly."

After two years of trying, a regional policy for underdevelop-ed regions finally was set up today, which at $15 billion over three years is less than half the original sum proposed. The main beneficiaries will be Italy, with 40 per cent of the total, Britain with 28 per cent and Ireland with a flat $7.2 million.

The money comes from the community budget, so Britain will be getting some of its money

The Nine also tried today to find a compromise on energy policy that would reconcile the French position with that of the rest of the community. As it appears now, the community will back the French call for a tripartite energy conference next year, and France will be expected to support community energy policy within the OECD. Mr. Giscard d'Estaing made it clear, however, that he expects the main energy compromise to be settled between him and President Ford during their meeting in Martinique next weekend, "We are not seeking an energy posi-tion that depends on the Nine alone," he told newsmen today.

There was modest agreement at yesterday's meeting on institu-tional reform that would permit some loosening of the veto right within council meetings to improve decision-making. Secretary of State Henry Kla-singer said Saturday that the donal cutoff has undermined U.S. diplomacy in trying to settle the Cyprus crisis. He appealed to the House to follow last week's Senate action and also vote to delay the aid cutoff until the middle of February. The State Department's intention is to cite Mr. Kissinger's discussions with the Turkish and Greek foreign ministers in Brussels as an added reason for con-tinuing Turkish aid while exploratory negotiations are under way.

Administration officials yesterday expressed hope that the House sponsors of the cutoff would now allow more time for Mr. Kissinger's diplomacy.

However, there was no sign of such a move. On the contrary, Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Europe, yesterday was reported to be determined to attach a continuing cutoff amendment to the pending foreign-aid bill.

A vote on the Rosenthal amendment is not expected before tomorrow. Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., a supporter of the aid cutoff to Turkey, said last night: "I would assume that the House will maintain its position."

Supporters of the aid cutoff claim it puts pressure on Turkey to negotiate.

Mr. Daley, 72, suffered a slight stroke earlier this year and un-derwent surgery to prevent a recurrence. His illness aroused speculation that he would finally relinquish his control of the powerful Chicago Democratic organization. He has been the city's mayor since 1955.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 10 (AP).-Humphrey Wallace Toomey, an aviation pioneer and former vice-president of Pan American World Airways, was shot to death yesterday in his apartment here, a spokesman for the airline said today.

Mr. Toomey, 74, pioneered the New York-Rio de Janeiro-Buenos Aires flight 45 years ago. He landed in Rio on Nov. 21, 1939, in a Sikorsky 8-38 bi-motor amphibiau aircraft that brought him from New York via the northeast Brazilian city of Recife. Two

Memo on Vladivostok Accord Still Not Final, U.S. Admits

By Bernard Gwertzman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (NYT). -Although the White House said week that the United States and the Soviet Union had agreed on a memorandum of the Vladivostok arms control agreement, the administration acknowledged yesterday that the exact language of that document was still being discussed with the Russians.

It made the admission after it was learned that the United States had raised questions with the Soviet Union about the wording of the aide-memoire that is supposed to stand as the record of what the two sides upon in Vladivostok.

But both White House and State. Department officials em-phasized that the questions under discussion were not major and did not deal with matters of great substance.

Key Clauses Stand

They said that the key elements of the tentative accord— a ceiling of 2,400 on long-range missiles and bombers, of which 1,320 missiles can be equipped with multiple warheads-remained unchallenged, as do the other parts of the accord made public so far.

But officials would not give details on what was under discussion. One official said he would not challenge speculation that the United States was trying to insert new language into the document, which reportedly consists of about one single-spaced typewritten page. On Monday of last week, White House Press Secretary Ronald Nessen was asked whether aidemémoires had been exchanged. He replied that the Soviet letter had been received two days earlier.

He was then asked: "Each has agreed on the aide-memoire and they exchanged it?"

Senate Panel Eyes Proposals To Control U.S. Spy Activities

By William Greider

The Senate Government Opera-tions Subcommittee, chaired by Sen, Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, began pulling together ideas yesterday for congressional harnessing of a $6-billion government activity - secret surveillance at home and abroad.

Muskie's subcommittee heard three senators offer competing proposals on how to take a firmer rein on the CIA, the FBI the Pentagon and other federal agencies which do secret work.

Sen. Muskie said there is considerable disagreement over how to proceed, but there is a general sentiment for strengthening congressional supervision of those

"We have seen alarming evi dence," he declared, "that we have created a monster. We have the FBI spying on congressmen and on domestic political groups. We have had the CIA involved in political shenanigans spawned by the White House staff. And we have had military agents spying on civilians on behalf of an agency created by executive order." Baker Proposal

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. pushed his own measure, cosponsored by 33 senators, create a new joint congressional committee on "intelligence oversight," which would examine foreign and domestic spy activities.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., spoke for his more modest proposal—a joint committee aimed only at monitoring domestic surveillance activities. Sen. Charles Mathias jr., R-Md., argued that before any permanent oversight structure is created. Congress should first commission a twoyear study of the fundamentals of intelligence-gathering, exploring for example whether the CIA's "covert operations" are needed or Ehrlichman's wife, Jean, who was in the courtroom, bowed her head and dabbed at her eyes. "Would you like to take a little recess?" asked U.S. District Judge John Sirics, who then interrupted the trial for 10 minutes. It was the second time in the course of the trial that a witness has cried while describing some aspect of the Watergate case.

Herbert Kalmbach, former Nixon lawyer and political fundraiser, broke down while describing how he solicited a $75,000 contribution from an industrialist friend. The money went into a fund from which payments were made to the Watergate burglars.

Ehrlichman went to Aspen Lodge, the presidential cabin at the mountain retreat, and found Mr. Nixon on the terrace.

Ehrlichman said Mr. Nixon told him "in substance that this was a very painful conversation . . . He broke down at one point and cried . . . He said he regretted very much having to take this

"He said I had been his conscience. I replied I hadn't been as effective as I'd like. "He said on reflection my judg-

"I said he could explain to our children why he was asking me to leave, and that basically was the end of the meeting." The next day, Mr. Nixon an-counced he had accepted, with regret, the resignations of Mr. Haldeman and Ehrlichman. Mr. Nixon also announced the resignation of Attorney General Richard Kleindlenst and the fir-ing of White House counsel John

Misled by Nixon

Earlier in today's court proceedings Ehrlichman had said that Mr. Nixon misled him about whether Mr. Nixon would consider granting clemency to the Watergate burglars.

Ehrlichman testified that during a walk along the beach at San Clemente, Calif., on July 8, 1972. Mr. Nixon said he would never entertain a conversation" on clemency for the men arrested June 17, 1972, inside Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Ehrlichman said he did not learn until recently that six months later Mr. Nixon and Charles Colson, then White House special counsel, discussed clemen-

'Very Different' "Well, if you compare what he told me in July and what's on the tapes, it's very different, yes," replied Ehrlichman. In his opening statement to the jury, Mr. Frates said part of Ehrlichman's defense would be that Mr. Nixon "deceived, misled and lied" to him about Watergate. Ehrlichman also testified that he was kept in the dark about the June 23, 1972, discussions between Mr. Nixon and Mr. Haldeman in which they decided to have CIA officials get the FBI to restrict its Watergate investi-

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (UPD). News and commercial employees at the Washington Star-News will work a shorter week for less pay rather than face layoffs, the newspaper reported today. The Star-News unit of the Washington-Baltimore Newspaper appreciative, not only of the guild's cooperation, but of its participation in helping management solve difficult problems that affect all of us."

Spanish Police Brace for Strike In Basque Areas

MADRID, Dec. 10 (UPI).—The police today moved reinforce-ments to two Spanish provinces where a general strike has been called for tomorrow to support demands for better treatment of political prisoners, opposition sources said.

The strikes were called by a coalition of underground leftist organizations in Guipuzcoa and Navarre, two northern provinces that are centers of Basque separatist and leftist activity.

The sources said strong police reinforcements have been moved to the provincial capitals of San Sebastian and Pamplona and other industrial centers in the region. Strikes are illegal in

UN Unit Confirms Massacre And Torture in Mozambique

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. (Reuters). - Portuguese and Rhodesian soldiers were responsible for the torture and massacre of at least 1,000 Africans in westcentral Mozambique in the last three years of the war of inde-pendence, according to a UN report released here yesterday.

The previous Portuguese government, whose determination to maintain its African colonies despite African guerrilla successes led to the military coup in Lisbon last April, had denied that massacres took place.

The report also established existence of a village, Wiriyamu, where some 200 people were killed, although the former Portuguese the village.

The report was compiled by a special five-nation commission of inquiry on the reported massacres in Mozambique. The commission was formed through Scandinavian and African initiatives despite opposition by Portugal, Spain, the United States and South Africa:

News of the mass murders surfaced last year when a British priest publicized the testimony of some Spanish priests who had fled Mozambique.

Pricets', Nuns' Testimony In the course of its work, the commission interviewed 28 Euro-pean priests and nuns, several members of the Mozambique guerrills movement, Frelimo, which now controls the provisional government of the territory, and some residente of the areas of Tote District, where the major atrocities took place.

In addition to the killing of the entire populations of small villages, the report mentioned the disembowelment of pregnant African women, electric-shock torture, forced relocation of populations and break-up of families, Portugal gave Rhodesian troops carte blanche to sweep into the territory to hunt guerrilles, and the UN report said the Rhodesians killed several people, including children, in the Mucumbura area.

Commission's Findings Among the commission's findings were the following:

· Portuguese troops and secret police killed more than 400 in the Tete villages of Chawols, Jose and Wirlyamu, which are at the confluence of the Zambezi and Luenha Rivers, in December, 1972. Wiriyamu was also known as Viliano Valete.

• Portuguese and Rhodesian forces killed 184 people in the village of Zambeze and neigh boring villages in March, 1972, Ninety people were killed Chiauato, in an area called Ai · As recently as March of th:

year, 200 were killed in Inhamings in the Beira District. · To force the local population to move to other districts, espe cially to move Africans from th area around the Cabora Bass dam, Portuguese troops often de stroyed their property.

Ministers Fear Inflationary Impact

Farmers Ask EEC for 18% Boost in Prices

By David Haworth

BRUSSELS, Dec. 10 (IHT),-European Economic Community farmers are demanding that the higgest rise they have ever had in guaranteed farm prices should come into operation next year. They want an average hike of 18 per cent, asserting that only a fraction of this will benefit farmers, since 15 per cent is to cover cost increases during the last two years and anticipated rises in

The demand has been lodged with the European Commission by the Committee of Professional Agricultural Organizations (CO-PA), the EEC's most influential farmers' lobby.

Among the price hikes the farmers want are 20 per cent for sugar, 15 per cent for milk, 20 per cent for soft wheat, 15 per cent for pork and heef, plus an in-definite extension of the current ban on beef imports from non-

EEC countries, COPA is seeking a rise of 15 per cent in the guaranteed price of corn, barley and tobacco and suggests that olive-oil prices should go up by 25 per cent.

If granted in full, such increases would add a vicious twist to the inflationary spiral affecting the economies of all nine EEC member nations. The political implications of granting them would, therefore, be very considerable. For this reason it can be confidently assumed that the farm-price increases for the next season, to be negotiated by EEC ministers between now and a Feh. 1 deadline, will fall well short of the farmers' demands.

The claim must be understood as an initial bargaining position, but COPA is bound to threaten further demonstrations and unrest among Europe's 10 million farmers if there is not a very substantial hike in prices.

... The percentage increases sought are in addition to the 5-per-cent average rise which was agreed on as an interim emergency

tober. price increases yesterday by the farm ministers, who met here for two days of talks.

Today, the ministers held only a brief discussion about rises, with each country stating its negotiating position without debate.

The unexpectedly short and inconclusiva meeting was a consequence of the illness of the French chairman, Christian Bonnet. At his request the discussions were ended early.

All the ministers had time, however, to express their anxieties about the possible inflationary effects that price increases would have, although it was generally accepted that the final price package would have to include a sufficient incentive to farmers to go on producing. If not, food production in the community would decline, driving retail prices up even more.

The ministers will have to srtike a delicate balance between these two factors in meetings next month. British Agriculture Min-ister Fred Peart admitted tonight that the task would be "both difficult and delicate." He also made it clear to his ministerial col-leagues that Britain must get satisfaction for its own demands. Such an achievement, he said, would be a vital element in Britain's attitude toward the renegotiation of the country's terms of EEC membership.

Mr. Tanaka refused to disclose his financial position after charges of irregularities were made in a magazine two months ago. Mr. Miki did not say how or when he will make the disclosure of his finances, but his move is expected in the near future.

The surgeons said that they are treating and studying 16 males whose breast enlargement apparently is related to smoking marijuana. They said that it probably affects both sexes.

"This effect seems to occur in only a small percentage of peo-ple who use the drug," said Dr John Harmon, chief surgical resident at New England Deaconess Hospital, and Dr. Menelaos Aliapoulios, a surgeon at Cambridge Hospital.

The most practical treatment is to surgically remove mammary gland tissue, the doctor said. This can be done quite simply and does not necessitate removal the entire breast," said Dr. Harmon. "There is no scarring or disfigurement."

Mideastern Quartet

The ultimate objective of any sane Middle Eastern diplomacy, of course, is to have a full chorus of all interests involved, with as much harmony as possible. Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon made that point in talks with Washington newemen, eaying that his discussions with President Ford and Mr. Kissinger dealt not only with an accord with Egypt, but "the entire Middle East, because each one of the countries of the Middle East is a candidate for political progress and agreements."

The initial moves toward such agreements, however, in the Kissinger mode of etep-bystep negotiations, are directed toward Israeli-Egyptian partial settlements, with the United States acting as mediator. This is recognized, and apparently accepted, by Egypt. But the passage of time and the lack of progress anywhere-unless the new prominence of the Palestine Liberation Organization can he considered progress—has reduced the effectiveness of the American initiatives. Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy has said that it was in Egypt'a 'national interest that the Soviet Union should play a greater role in the peacemaking effort.

In other words, the original trio, performing what were intended to he the opening chords of a great chorus, will he expanded to a quartet, if Egypt has its way. And Egypt seems more desirous than hefore of bringing the full Geneva conference into the composition.

This would raise a large number of comolications. Instead of an agreement on Israeli withdrawals in the Sinai, accompanied by Egyptian moves toward nonbelligerence, as a prelude to other partial settlements with Syria, all of the tangled issues are likely to be thrown on the conference tables, with all of the points of friction exposed

What has happened in the past months is that the attitudes of both sides have become more difficult to reconcile; Arab impatience with Israeli slowness to make concessions has been coupled with closer Arab linking to Palestinian intransigence. In full conference, these could lead to a wordy stalemate and the increased danger of renewed war. Is it possible for the United States, and the Soviet Union, to act as joint mediators in preliminary discussions? Moscow seems wedded to bringing about the full Geneva conference as soon as possible, But, if given a responsible role in the present round of talks, perhaps the Soviet Union would adopt a more practical stand. And if detente has any constructive meaning, it should do so. Vladivostok raised as many questions as it supplied answers; the major question relates to the Middle East, Assuming that the Soviet Union wants a reasonable resolution of the chronic crisis there, it will help in efforts to bring about the full conference on a basis that offers some hope of guickening. Only a few months after Portugal removed its colonial hold from Mozamhique and Angola, a stunning transformation has become possible in Rhodesia. The white minority government of Ian Smith, rendered more pliant by the collapse of Portuguese colonialism and hy the guns of African guerrillas, has begun considering the terms on which it would negotiate a constitutional transition to majority rule. Over the weekend, Mr. Smith rejected proposals based on "immediate" majority rule, but the bargaining is still going on. The rival African nationalist movements in Rhodesia have finally set aside their own considerable differences to present a united front to the Smith regime. Zambia and Tanzania, with their own interest in promoting a sonthern African detente, are encouraging the talks.

South Africa is the principal moving force behind these new developments. Seeing its former buffer of South-West Africa (due for independence), Botswana, white-ruled Rhodesia and colonial Mozambique crumbling, South Africa set out this year to adjust its external relations. As part of this effort, Pretoria evidently has undertaken to use its infinence to expedite majority rule in South-West Africa. In return, the black the changes in the nations to the north. African nations would leash guerrillas and

The pace of change in southern Africa is - accord Sonth Africa certain greater room for a good-faith effort to soften apartheid. Currently South Africa provides police assistance to Rhodesia. This would end if the reins were taken in Salisbury by a majority government committed to coexistence. Pretoria's farm surpluses, technology, labor market and its general affluence and military strength give it valuable cards to play in dealing with its less well endowed neighbors. Sonth Africa is also well aware of the advantage which a good-neighbor policy can confer in its attempt to combat its growing isolation on the international scene.

As welcome and significant as are the changes occurring or portending in Rhodesia, Sonth-West Africa and Mozambique, it remains so that the heart of the racial problem in southern Africa lies within South Africa itself. Pretoria's diplomacy—like its pledged intent to remove the more visible forms of racial discrimination at home-are patently designed to let it continue and consolidate its profoundly unjust system of apartheid, or "separate development." South Africa is prepared to respect the principles of racial equality and human dignity but only if they are put into effect on the far side of its own borders. This dark irony Rhodesia, and to hasten independence in must temper any satisfaction expressed at THE WASHINGTON POST.

International Opinion

Southern Africa Exercise

As black and white statesmen and political prisoners flit in semi-secrecy about southern Africa, it is well that we should recognize what, in spite of all the obvious difficulties that stand in the way, is the object of this unexpected exercise. The immediate talks may have broken down, but the significant thing is that they should have started at all, for their aim is nothing less than to call a truce-temporary, perhaps, hut real-in that African racial confrontation that has bedevilled the whole world community for a quarter of a century.

The picture that is taking shape in many minds is one in which all the outposts of white supremacy in southern Africa will, more or less peacefully, he ahandoned. This is already happening in Mozamhigne and Angola, and it has been half-promised for South-West Africa. If by agreement Rhodesia were to he set, however gradually, on the road to majority rule, an intractable international problem would at least he reduced to its true proportions.

What Price Glory in NATO?

By C.L. Sulzberger

DARIS - Sandwiched between summit meetings and diplomatic negotiations, this week is supposed to mark significant events in the 25-year-old North Atlantic Alliance. Gen. Alexander Haig assumed command over NATO forces in Europe yesterday and the coalition's defense and foreign ministers gathered in Brussels for their annual winter

Undoubtedly it is an accom-plishment that the alliance has survived a quarter-century of subsiding East-West tensions, growing disintegration within the West itself, and the beginning of a major recession that makes lt increasingly unpopular for democratic governments to spend large sums on defense.

The mood is glum. A new generation sees little reason to arm. against Russia while at the same time jovially courting its favor and also feels no closer to the hrutalities of World War II than it does to the Napoleonic con-flict. Nor has Western leadership done much to attract support. Little by little NATO is being nibbled by time and boredom. It is slowly dying on its bottom in interminable committee meetings.

It is time to challenge the comfortable assumption that simply because the alliance exists, all possibility of major war is excluded. There has been no holocaust since NATO's birth but there have been plenty of military actions, often involving alliance members: France, Britain, the United States, Portugal, Greece and Turkey.

One hears continual talk of the need for interallied openness on crucial matters but sees little evidence that this is displayed during crises—especially when one or another ally deems its own national interests of no concern to others.

And militarily what is NATO's meaning? Greece and Turkey have been members for 22 years and one thing exposed by their private crisis last summer was the appalling mess of their respective military situations. They have been training troops under NATO guidance, with NATO weapons and NATO strategists all this time-and yet?

During their summer tightrope act on the brink, the Turkish Army planned an amphibious operation against Cyprus with twinned simultaneous landings at Kyrenia and Famagusta, The second didn't come off for weeks, The Turks also bombed and sank with heavy losses one of their own destroyers, mistaken for a

The Greeks shot down one of their own planes, reported the departure for unknown parts of a Turkish aimada that didn't exist, and proved wholly unable to carry out even the rudiments of mohilization. What have these two countries learned about how defend themselves-even against each other, which is not the object of the exercise?

On a larger scale, the alliance has never achieved its dream of producing sensible arms standardization to keep the cost of modern weapons down NATO uses 25 types of aircraft and 15 types of tanks Francis alism got the better of rationalism-as emphasized in the argument about NATO's next generation of jets.

This dispute underscores that despite tons of communiques, the allies have made little progress toward creating their own arms industry and never fully agreed on the logic of this vital necessity. France is now riven by savage debate on the matter. Because Gen. Paul Stehlin, a perliamentary deputy and former air force chief, had the temerity to suggest that American aircraft superior and cheaper than the latest French Mirages offered to NATO purchasers, he has been Stehlin has now published a book in his own defense, pointing out that the French contender doesn't even exist because It hasn't yet been tested with its new engine. He dismisses as un-true allegations that Europe in general and Prance in particular would lose industrial orders and jobs by accepting suggested U.S.

Energies Eroded

Contradicting him, a report to the Assembly of the Western European Union complains: "The problem of the nature of the alliance srises: Is the aim a partnership between equals or a strengthening of United States leadership in the defense field by extending it to the field in which Europe is trying to assert itself, ie, that of the economy? Debates questioning the inner philosophy of the alliance erode its fading energies. NATO complains privately that Kissinger doesn't consult enough and Kissinger complains privately that NATO doesn't consult at all.

The allied armies-if . Greece and Turkey provide any cine— have learned little and forgotten their raison d'être. There is no overall strategy (French missile warheads would land in West Germany if used in war). And there isn't even a common weapons program. Is a quarter-century not long enough to make these matters appear urgent?

Lessons of WW II

Today's Ultra Secrets

By William Safire

Leslie Howard, whom generations of Americans remember as the gentle Ashley Wilkes in "Gone With the Wind," boarded an aircraft early in World War II on a secret mission. The Germans knew about it and shot down the unarmed plane. The British knew beforehand that the Germans knew, but to protect the secret of how they knew, British intelligence let the plane go down and the actor die. On another occasion, Field Marshal Goering's Luftwaffe targeted the city of Coventry for saturation bombing, to show Britons the horror of continued resistance, Winston Churchill was told of the plan in time to have been able to evacuate Coventry; to protect the secret of how he knew, he chose to allow the name of Coventry to become synonymous with

The secret that had to be protected at all costs was "The Ultra Secret," disclosed after 35 years in a book by Frederick Winterbotham, now 76, who had been an RAF intelligence officer. The secret was this: The British had cracked the seemingly unbreak-able code of the Nazi high command, and were able to read their opponent's top-level mes-sages throughout the war.

Aging Ex-Spies

The other night, the Veterans of the Office of Strategic Services -predecessor to the CIA-gathered in Washington to present the William Donovan Award to Export-Import Bank chairman William Casey, who had heen the American chief of secret intelligence in Europe during World War II. The room was filled with aging, fairly successful men -Hale-fellows-well-met who had led spying or resistance operations in a war against an undoubted enemy when they were young and daring.

Casey told how information gathered by Ultra which not even the OSS knew about at the time—was used to help protect Allied forces in the invasion of Europe.

German Gen. Von Rundstedt believed that "Overlord"—the Allied invasion of Europe would be launched at Calais, across the narrowest part of the English Channel, Gen. Rommel disagreed, predicting it would come in Normandy. Rommel was right, of course; but despite the theft of the plans for "Overlord" by an intrepid German spy in Turkey, and even after the Normandy landings took place on D-Day, Hitler would not commit all available forces to smashing the Allied beachnead.

Giant Deception

That was because of a giant deception by the Allies, which had the Germans helieving that the Normandy landing was a mere diversion, and that 30 divisions of Allied troops—which never existed—were poised to strike at WASHINGTON.—British actor Calais as soon as German panze divisions there moved south to Normandy.

When Ultra intercepts showe that Hitler was torn between you Rundstedt and Rommel, Allie intelligence was told by Fisen hower and Churchill to redoubl the flow of false information hacking up the deluded Von Rund stedt's belief. They did; Hitle would not send reserves to Rom mel: the Allied beachhead wa not driven back into the sea Think of it: The Germans ha stolen the plans for D-Day, an even after the landings begat would not act on their informs tion, because Allied intelligence had convinced them that th stolen secret—and even what the eves were telling them-was no to be believed.

Breathtaking stuff. Masteria decett. And the ruthless decision of Churchill to let men and citie die rather than expose the secre was justified in history.

To send actor Howard to hi death meant the opportunity late to shoot down the plane of Jap anese Admiral Yamamoto, an the thousands killed and maine at Coventry would make it pos sible to keep Normandy from turning into another Dunking But the alternatives faced at the time by Churchill, FDR. and the handful of men making the deci sions to protect the secret mus have seared their souls.

A long generation later, we are still making what we now cal "tradeoffs," without the drama certainly without the heroics, and without the courage to explon the conscious choices we are being forced to make.

We have chosen to throw mit. lions of men and women out of work so that inflation can be curbed and our economy brough back from the brink, and we must now choose whether to adop a line of absolute economic die tatorship.

than $100 hillion over the next decade into the direct purchase of nuclear arms, which we call limit. ing the arms race, because we. hope that any agreement to raca shoulder-to-shoulder-with neither side leading-will ensure human survival,

Starving Millions

We have chosen to try to feed starving millions without demanding stringent population control, salving our consciences today but probably causing 10 times the starvation in the coming generation.

In today's world, Coventrys still have to be sacrificed, but we shut-our eyes to the life-and-death consequences of the choices we make.

We kill collective hargaining in the name of stability, we finance an arms race in the name of equality, and we induce starvation in the name of humanity. But these are decisions heing made in peacetime—must we treat them

Paralysis of Ford

By William F. Buckley Jr.

NEW YORK -It is true that fleeting unpopularity of it. I say ucts of a country that does not President Ford has permitted himself to look and act a little bit like Joe Palooka in recent weeks, and behold, the country is sore afraid. People who have experienced Gerald Ford at close quarters know that he is a man of nimble intelligence who quickly understands the dimensions of a problem. Clearly his difficulty lies in having acquired the habit, over the years, of approaching prob-lems with more or less equal consideration given to several factors: How would Congress react, bow would the folks back instincts may be doing him a good service. To impose a tax home react, how would the special interests react, how would the White House react. Now that the White House is Ford, it requires readjustment of old

Everyone agrees that he committed a very bad slip when, in opposing a gasoline tax, he gave as the principal reason for doing so that "81 per cent of the people" were against the tax Eightyone per cent of the people are against any tax, except maybe against oil companies.

to be decided conclusively by the fleeting unpopularity because there is already a very heavy federal tax on gasoline, and as a professional injustice collector, I have yet to hear a single complaint against it. People get used to things. That is both good and bad. They get used to the heavy, spirit-extinguishing taxation of omnipotent government. It does not require very much from the leader to persuade a people suffering from inflation and oil blackmail that you need to increase the tax on gasoline. But here is where Mr. Ford's upon oneself is hard enough. A tax approaches unendurability when the purpose of that tax is not entirely palpable. For emotional reasons, the very best taxes are those that are being used either to reward people or to punish them. An example is a raise in social security payments for old people. There will be a little grumbling, but not much The second was a tax to build bombers and submarines to rip the hell ont of the Japanese Navy retaliation for Pearl Harbor: that kind of tax came as close to being a popular tax as any in recent history.

The blanket tax on gasoline is missing that form of discrimination that gives it a moral flavor. That is why the President should recommend to Congress a dif-ferentiated tax: a tax that falls more heavily on the products of a country that seeks to do us damage, less heavily on the prodseek to do us damage. If the local grocer happened to have a huge stock of sugar on hand when the price of it suddenly went up from 100: cents to 80 cents, he is going; to sell his sugar for the new price rather than for the old price.

Punitive Act

But the price set by the Persian Gulf states tends to be punitive. in its effect as in its intention. Speech of the great leader Comrade KIM IL SUNG

"On the situation of our country and tasks of the league of Korean youth in Japan"

(PART 1)

PYONGYANG, September 27 (KCNA).—The great leader Comrade Kim II Sung received the home visiting group of art and sports delegates of Korean youth in Japan, the second home-visiting group of Korean educational workers in Japan and the home-visiting group of the Korean high school students in Japan and made a program speech on September 24, 1974.

The shorthand text of the speech of the great leader Comrade Kim Il Sung reads in full:

I am very happy to meet today comrades representatives of Korean youth, comrades representatives of students and comrades representatives of educational workers in Japan who are valiantly fighting there for the fatherland, defense of the democratic, national rights and for the reunification of the fatherland. It is thanks to the powerful struggle you comrades have waged for defending the democratic, national rights that today we have come to meet like this in Pyongyang, the capital of revolution.

I, on behalf of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea, the government of the republic and the entire people, educational workers, youth and students in the homeland, warmly welcome you comrades and extend warm greetings to you.

We often meet in Pyongyang delegations of foreign countries and always meet workers in various domains of our country, but it pleases us most to meet the compatriots who have come to the homeland from Japan. Still fresh in my memory is how I was pleased to meet the students of the soccer team of the Korean Middle and High School in Tokyo and the song and dance circle of the Korean Primary School in Yokohama and how impressive it was for me to meet the students of the music and sports circle of the Korea University, who had once come to the homeland.

Very deep is the kindred affection among the people. Each time we hear the news that compatriots, brothers and sisters who are living, undergoing hardships in an alien land are to visit the homeland and particularly, we meet the compatriots who have come to the homeland, a thousand emotions and excitements well in our mind.

I am immensely pleased today to meet Karean youth and students and educational workers who have come to the homeland from Japan. It is not the feeling entertained by me alone, but you are also of the same feeling and, more, all the people of our country will feel alike, I think.

When we meet the youth, students and people of South Korea after reunifying the country in future just as we do, it will please and impress us all the more.

This meeting of ours today, I think, will be imprinted forever on your memories and on my mind as a significant meeting.

You are so greatly overloyed at this meeting today that you are shedding tears of emotion. You being so excited, I also feel a lump in my throat and my voice fails to make a speech.

Comrades, calm yourselves.

We will meet again in the future in the course of waging together the revolutionary struggle. Let us all struggle well to the end, meeting and parting, parting and meeting again on the one road of revolution and thus accomplish the cause of national reunification, the greatest aspiration of our nation, without fail.

Today I would like to tell you comrades about the situation obtaining in our country and about some tasks lacing the League of Korean Youth in Japan.

I.—On the situation of our country.

It is necessary, I think, for you on a visit to the homeland to acquaint yourselves well with the situation obtaining in our country before returning.

Today the situation of our country is very good. Though the South Korean reactionaries and the U.S. and lapanese and other reactionaries of the world are maliciously trying to defame our republic, the general situation is developing more and more in layour of our revolution.

The most important target of struggle put forth by our party today is to realize the country's reunification, the greatest desire and cherished aspiration of our nation.

Our party has advanced three tasks to accomplish the historic cause of national reunification.

The first task is to powerfully push ahead with the socialist construction in the northern half of the republic. Only when the socialist construction is dynamically pushed ahead in the northern half of the republic is it possible to solidly build up the base of revolution, and only when the base of revolution is solidly built up is it possible to falfil the cause of national reunification with success. The revolutionary base of the northern half of the republic is the basic wherewithal for the victory of our revolution.

The second task is to strengthen the revolutionary lorces of South Korea by actively supporting the democratic movement of the South Korean people. The reunification of the country will not be achieved only with the successful socialist construction in the northern half of the republic. When the democratic movement of the South Korean people develops, the democratic forces of South Korea and the socialist forces of the northern half will be united and the cause of national reunification achieved with success.

The third task is to strengthen unity with the international revolutionary forces. The enemies with whom we are standing face to face are the South Korean reactionaries as well as the reactionaries of the United States and Japan. The U.S. and Japanese reactionaries are the leading chief-tens of reaction in the world. In order to fight and win the chieftains of the world reaction, our people should cement unity with all the revolutionary forces of the world. We should unite with the peoples of the socialist countries, unite with the peoples of the third-world countries, unite with the peoples of the countries fighting for national independence, unite with the working class of the capitalist countries fighting against oppression and exploitation by applied and unite with all the peaceloving people of the world.

As mentioned above, only by successfully carrying on the socialist construction in the northern half of the republic to solidly build up the base of revolution, supporting the democratic movement of the South Korean people to strengthen the revolutionary forces of South Korea and comenting the unity with the international revolutionary forces, can we win in the fight against the chieftains of the world reaction, reunify the fatherland and achieve the nation-wide victory of the revolution.

I think that you may clearly acquaint yourselves with the situation obtaining in our country when you are told of how the three tasks for national reunification put forward by our party are now being carried out in the home-

I will tell you first about the situation of socialist construction in the northern half of the republic.

To build socialism in the northern half of the republic is a line maintained all along by our party since our country was liberated from the colonial rule of Japanese im-

For building socialism and communism, it is imperative to fulfil three revolutions, namely, the ideological, technical and cultural revolutions.

As we have already said on various occasions, socialism and communism are by no means built only by constructing many factories and making the chimneys of factories give off volumes of smoke. The historic experiences show that in order to successfully build socialism and communism, the two fortresses for the building off communism, the material and ideological fortresses, must be captured alike without fall, for capturing both the material and ideological fortresses, the ideological, technical and cultural revolutions must be thoroughly carried out.

Now our party puts forth the three revolutions, idealogical, technical and cultural, as the most important tasks in socialist construction and is energetically striving to fulfil them.

Our party is powerfully carrying on the ideological revolution above all.

The main point in the ideological revolution is to arm all the party members, working people and youth with the revolutionary idea, the Juche idea, of our party.

The Korean revolution must be fulfilled by the Korean people themselves under the leadership of the Workers' Party of Korea. To this end, all the party members and working people should be firmly armed with the revolutionary idea, the Juche idea, of our party. If a Korean is not armed with the idea of our party, but espouses the idea of a party of another country, he cannot be called a man who lives for the Korean revolution, and he cannot make the Korean revolution well. The party members and working people can successfully fulfil the Korean revolution only when all of them are solidly armed with the revolutionary idea, the Juche idea, of our party and have the unswerving stand and viewpoint of knowing no other idea than the idea of our party.

In order to arm the party members and working people with the revolutionary idea, the Juche idea, of our party, a powerful struggle must be waged against the capitalist, feudal Confucian, revisionist and flunkeylst ideas and all other antiquated ideas.

The struggle against the antiquated ideas is not a struggle against the persons themselves who have them, but an ideological struggle for rooting out the old ideas remaining in the minds of people. The ideological struggle must under no circumstances be carried out by forcible means.

The basic way for liquidating the old ideas is to strengthen study and organisational life. We are striving to uproot the old ideas remaining in the minds of the party members and working people and arm them with the revolutionary idea, the Juche idea, of our party by the method of educating and the method of strengthening organisational life. Now in the homeland, a strict discipline of all people studying has been established and the members of the League of Socialist Working Youth take an active part in the organisational life of the LSWY, the trade union members in the organisational life of the trade union, the members of the Union of Agricultural Working People in the organisational life of the Women's Union members in the organisational life of the Women's Union and the party members in the party organisational

When all the party members and working people are firmly armed with the Juche idea and guided to breathe with the Juche idea at any time and in any place and act in accordance with the demand of the Juche idea, a greater victory will be won in the socialist construction. When the whole bodies of the people are filled with the Juche idea, all the party members, working people, soldiers and youth and students will be firmly united with one idea and one will; and when the entire people are united with one mind and one will, the socialist construction will be dynamically pushed chead and the difficulties cropping up in the revolutionary struggle be successfully overcome.

What is important next in the ideological revolution is to educate all the people in the love of work.

Labour in socialist society is the most sacred and honourable thing. Those who hate to work and like to eat the bread of idleness are not welcomed anywhere in our society.

There is mental and physical labour in labour; every-hody should do work, either mental or physical. All the people should work in communist society, too.

Our party advanced the line of revolutionizing and working-classizing all the members of society by strengthening the ideological revolution. To revolutionize and working-classize all the members of society is the basic aim of the ideological revolution.

Now the ideological revolution is going well in the homeland. With the successful progress of the ideological revolution, the technical revolution is also going well and all the revolutionary tasks put forward by the party are being successfully fulfilled. Recently in particular, the party centre directly sent groups for three revolutions down to factories, enterprises and co-operative farms to help the workers of the lower units, with the result that the ideological, technical and cultural revolutions are going on successfully.

In order to successfully build socialism and communism, the technical revolution should be energetically pushed ahead along with the ideological revolution. Only when the political and ideological preparations of the people are backed by material forces through the technical revolution can our revolutionary forces grow

The technical revolution is an important revolutionary task to consolidate the economic foundation of the country and free the working people from toilsome work. The technical revolution should be regarded not onesidedly as a task to consolidate the material foundation, but always as a political task.

Some people think that the technical revolution has its purpose simply in developing technique and productive forces and producing greater material wealth to eat well, dress well and lead a material life of plenty. But, the purpose of the technical revolution does not confine to this alone. The more important purpose of the technical revolution is to free all the working people from arduous and difficult labour.

Even though goods are produced in great quantities on the one hand through the development of technology, if the working people do toilsome and harmful labour and their health is affected, on the other, it is of no use at ail. For instance, though it is said that technology is developed in Japan, the people are greatly suffering from serious air pollution. We cannot say that such technological development conforms to the purpose of the technical revolution. The technical revolution is primarily a struggle for

The technical revolution is primarily a struggle for freeing all the working people from backbreaking and difficult labour. We say simply technical revolution to avoid long words, but, to express correctly, we should call it the revolution for freeing the working people from arduous

In it is the most important revolutionary task facing the Communists to free the working people from arduous and difficult labour. Needless to say, it is very important to emancipate the working people from exploitation and oppression. But, this is not enough. Only by relieving even from arduous labour the working people freed from exploitation and oppression after the overthrow of the old exploiting system can the Communists say that they have fully discharged their duty. It is the most important revolutionary task to free the working people from arduous labour after liberating them from oppression by imperialism and exploiter classes.

Thus, the technical revolution is not a technical and business-like task for producing mass consumption goods and equipment in greater quantities, but a task of political character.

When consumer goods and equipment are not only produced in great quantities but also manufactured easily, the people who use them will feel at ease. When rice is produced easily, the mind of the people who eat it will also be light. If it is produced with difficulty, the mind of the people who eat it will not be comfortable and rice would not go down the throat well. Those who do not care with what difficulty the peasants produced rice, but think only of their eating well are not men of conscience and thinking, so is the idea of the exploiter classes such as landlords and capitalists.

We have not yet completely freed the working people from toilsome labour nor have we abolished the distinction between heavy and light labour, between agricultural and industrial labour, between physical and mental labour. We intend to do away with the distinction between heavy and light labour, distinction between agricultural and industrial labour, free women from the heavy burdens of household chores and, furthermore, abolish the distinction between physical and mental labour. By making the working people turn out quantities of goods while working with ease we plan to enable all the members of society to work according to their ability and receive distribution according to their needs. This is the very target of Communism

Such tasks cannot, of course, be carried out in a short time. Therefore, it is prescribed in the report to the Fifth Congress of our party that the distinctions between heavy and light labour and between agricultural and industrial work will be markedly narrowed during the 6-year plan period.

The tasks of the technical revolution are being successfully fulfilled in our country today.

The most toilsome work in our country is the labour in the domain of extractive industries such as felling trees, excavating coal and area and doing geological prospecting. So we direct great efforts, in the first place, to the technical revolution in the extractive industries.

No less successful is the progress of the struggle for eliminating the difference between agricultural and industrial work.

Agricultural work is yet more difficult than industrial work. We intend to eliminate the distinction between agricultural and industrial work in a brief period. There is, of course, much work yet to be done in the rural technical revolution. But, no small success has already been made in this domain. Irrigation has been carried out already long ago and electrification has also been realized in our country. And the goal of chemicalization set in the thesis on the rural question is expected to be attained about next year.

Mechanization has not yet been fulfilled in the rural districts of our country. We may say that there is no limit when it comes to the complete mechanization of agriculture. But we are going to fulfil the main things in the mechanization of agriculture by next year by dedicating efforts to it.

The thesis on the rural question provides for the supply of 70,000 to 80,000 tractors to the countryside and that many tractors have already found their way to the rural districts. But, 6 to 8 tractors are needed for each 100 chongbo of arable land, if we are to complete the methanization of agriculture. There are areas where many tractors have already been supplied, but a small number of them have gone to some areas. We should supply more tractors to be distributed evenly in all the areas in the future, then a bigger leap will be made in the agriculture of our country.

This year is a significant year in which we celebrated the 10th anniversary of the publication of the thesis on the rural question. In response to the call of the party for bringing again a great upsurge in ogricultural production, with the 10th anniversary of the publication of the thesis on the rural question as a momentum, the peasants have done work with high enthusiasm, and the whole country has powerfully assisted the countrystde, with the result that a great success has been registered in agricultural production this year.

A recent survey of the situation of farming this year revealed that a very marvellous success is foreseen. It is expected this year that 10 counties will produce 150,000 tons of grain each, 24 counties 100,000 tons and 31 counties 80,000 tons; that is, as many as 65 counties will turn out more than 80,000 tons each. Many counties are expected to double their grain output this year compared with last year. Bounteous crops have visited our country this year os we sing in our song: bumper harvest in apples, in rice and in all other crops. The political committee of the Central Committee of the party some time ago took a measure to send to the countryside all the trucks now produced to gather in the plentiful crops in time. From old times they said one might be called rich only when his rice-chest was full and rice pot was filled to overflowing. Now the rice-chests will be filled to overflowing everywhere in our country, which means that our country has become rich and the people will be better off.

It is not because the counties grew larger, but the agricultural productive forces have made such radical development that grain output has more than doubled in many counties this year. In other words, all this is a success brought about by the rural technical revolution.

Thus, the struggle for industrializing agriculture and the struggle for eliminating the distinction between agricultural and industrial work are progressing very well in our country.

Ching well liberates in the fulfillment of the target of the Going well likewise is the fulfillment of the tasks of the technical revolution for freeing the women from the heavy burden of household chores.

The women should be led into public life, if they are to be working-classized. They cannot be working-classized if they remain at home, not taking part in public life.

And the social emancipation of the women can be practically realized only when they assume work in society. The promulgation of the law on the equality of the sexes alone does not completely solve the problem of emancipating the women. For the practical realization of the social emancipation of the women, they should be led to participate in public life and assume work suitable for their ability: those fit for mental labour undertaking mental labour and those fit for physical labour assuming physical labour. There are many lines of work suitable for women in our society. The women can work as doctors and teachers, can work at light industrial factories, can work as saleswomen at stores and work in the domain of public service.

For widely drawing women into public life, the problem of freeing them from the heavy burden of household chares must be solved.

Now the women house to bear the double burden of

Now the women have to bear the double burden of labour when they participate in public life. In other words, the women have to do work just like men in society and do such household chores at home as cooking meals, taking care of the children, tending the clothes of the families.

It is very hard for the women physically weaker than men to assume the double burden of labour. Therefore, the fifth congress of our party set it forth as an important task to free the women from the heavy burden of household chores.

What is important in freeing the women from the burden of household chores is, first of all, to widely develop the work of rearing the children at state and public expense. The party and state have huilt nurseries and kindergartens everywhere, directing much effort to the work of rearing the children at state and public expense. Today, in our country, 3,500,000 children are growing at nurseries and kindergartens at state and public expense.

Engels said that it is an important Communist policy to rear at public expense all the children who left the side of their mothers. And we think that our country is the first to carry this Communist policy into practice.

We also throw great energy into the development of light industry. We supply dresses made at foctories and produce and supply large quantities of processed food, washing machines, electric rice-cooking pots and other kitchen utensils so that women can do kitchen work and household chores with the cost of less time. Along with this, we take care that the service networks are expanded and better conveniences offered to the population.

Speech of the great leader Comrade KIM IL SUNG will be continued this Friday.

It is becoming style-setting Duke Ellingtor band a contemporary carrier of the Ellington tradition.

"We want to play the Ellington music as authentically as possible." Mercer Ellington, who is 55 years old, said at a recent performance by the band in North Brunswick, N.J. "Right now I don't know if we're in the process of perpetuating an old hand or of establishing a new band. In a sense, it is a new band, Ten of the 17 musicians in the band have come into it since Pop passed. But the only real change that will come in the music will be from a lack of ability to conform. Some hrash young man might come along and impose his own style on the Ellington style. Such a brash young man might be Ricky Ford." Ricky Ford is a 20-year-old tenor saxophonist who sounds like no tenor saxophonist Duke Ellington ever had. There are touches of Lester Young in his playing, other moments when he reminds one of Sonny Rollins. But essentially he is finding his own expressive way. Age Change

The aging actress who has lost her public is a serviceable, if not very novel, theme. Femmes, Femmes' (at the Pagode) relates the decline of two ex-comedi-ennes living together in hysterical despair in a dismal flat overlooking a cemetery. We have them volcing their hopeless hopes, taking to the bottle, making scenes. Helene Surgère and Sonia Saviange are convincing as the mel-ancholy has-beens, but their director, Paul Vecchiall, a novice, has been unable to supply his screenplay with sufficient variety. Compensating dramatic strength is required for the staging of such a depressing story. This the di-rector has not provided and his film is nf an oppressive monotony.

At the start of "The Screaming Target" (at the Napoléon in En-glish) we are back in prison— this time with Oliver Reed, a brutal London roughneck who is serving 15 years. He makes his escape to avenge himself on his faithless girlfriend who proves more disloyal than he suspected. She is the screaming target and his pursuit of her is the motive of all the action, which, of course, includes auto chases and shoot-nuts with the police. This ganghat, but exceedingly badly organized. One wonders who was responsible for the selection of such a poor script.

HAMBURG: Friedrich Puts Nev Life in 'Marriage of Figaro

HAMBURG (IHT).—Götz. Friedrich's new production of Mozari comic masterpiece. "The Marriage of Figaro." exemplifies ti-qualities of realistic music-theater that have put the stage director such demand.

The opera comes theatrically to vivid life. Such a work as thi which consists largely, at times maddeningly, of almost endless repet : tions of the sequence entrance-recitative-aria-exit, requires a master touch and an endless fount of ideas.

The curtain calls typify Friedrich's supply of ideas which ark quite logically and organically from the material. At the end, a wet ding joyously takes place; curtain. The curtain then rises to disclos the bridal pair in a passionate clinch. They break decorously a liverled lackeys bring onto the stage food and wine appropriate to th occasion, followed by all the hungry guests. With music-master Basilli ticking off a protocol list, the guests, singly or in groups, hardly interrupting their sipping and nibbling, come briefly to the epron to acknowledge the (rapturous) applause, then return eagerly to the festivities These curtain calls don't follow the opera, they extend it and in a captivating way.

Friedrich's attention to musical-theatrical details at times give rise to an apt application of what Hollywood movie composers cal Mickey-Monsing. For instance, at the end of Bartolo's first recitative he synchronizes the final dominant and tonic chords with two appropriate pinches of snuff, one into each nostril. The subsequent delayer succee also comes at exactly the right musical moment.

Not that Friedrich alone has stolen this show. Gary Bertin achieved a limpid clarity from the orchestra, which me hears rarely Judith Beckmann as the counters and Justino Diaz as Figaro stoppe the show at two points. LONDON, Dec. 10. - Sterling declined to a record low against other currencies today although the Bank of England spent an estimated $250 million to support the rate.

The main influence was a report that Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) has been told by Saudi Arabia to use dollars for all future oil settlements and tax purposes, dropping sterling completely as a settlement cur-rency. At present, sterling is used for slightly less than 25 per cent of the Aramco payments. Late today Exxon Corp., one of the owners of Aramco, confirmed

Pound Hits Low on Arab Report

In addition to the report con-cerning Aramco, banking sources 12 London said the oil-producing states are apparently no longer investing large amounts in sterling because of concern that Britain's high inflation rate will erode the purchasing power of their money.

Until November, the oil-producing states had been investing considerable sums in sterling each month. Though the exact amount cannot be determined. Treasury and Bank of England data suggest the amount ranged between a low of £175 million in January and a high of £350 million in July.

However, the amount of oil money invested in sterling in November appears to have dropped very sharply to between zero and £50 million, apart from a previously arranged £170-million loan from Iran.

Inflation Rate Cited

One of the reasons cited by bankers for oil-producers avoiding sterling was the prospect of a very high rate of inflation in Britain next year.

The National Institute for Economic and Social Research, an independent and respected organization, bas predicted retail prices will increase 20 to 25 per cent next year. A recent report by Rothschild Intercontinental Bank forecasts a higher rate of 25 to WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (NYT). and the Justice Department, at Legislation making criminal the time proposed settlement is Legislation making criminal violations of the anti-trust laws a felony, punishable by jail sentences of up to three years, was passed by the Senate yesterday.

The action appeared to assure passage of the legislation this year since the House, which had passed its own version is reported ready to accept the Senate's measure and President Ford is certain to sign it.

Making a felony of criminal anti-trust violations—a category that includes agreements between alleged competitors to sell at the same prices or not to sell in each other's territories—is a move that would strip convicted violators of basic citizenship rights, including the right to vote, in most states. Thus, the legislation is expected by its advocates to provide a strong deterrent to price-fixing and other such crimes. At present, the maximum penalty is one year, but the penalty most com-monly imposed is 30 days, if that. The maximum fine would be increased from the present maximum of $50,000, which applies to either individual corporate officlais or the corporation itself, to $500,000 for individuals and $1

The bill provides that all contacts between government officials and company officials be reported publicly, except those between the company's lawyer

The Senate accepted the House version of all sections of the bill except the one on the procedure by which anti-trust cases reach the Supreme Court. It insisted on its own version, which would permit both the government and the company involved to ask the trial judge to permit an appeal to the Supreme Court, The House bill would have permitted only the government to do this.

House leaders are reportedly willing to accept the Senate version in the interest of getting the hill passed this year.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP-DJ).— British carmakers had one of their worst months ever in November, with overall new car registrations falling sharply while the Japanese-made Datsun and other imported cars took a record share of the market.

Total registrations fell last month to 92,148, down nearly 30 per cent from 115,668 a year earlier. Imported cars accounted for a record 35.6 per cent of the market, with Datsun registrations ris-ing to 8,835 cars, or to 9.64 per cent of the market. Year-earlier Datsun registrations were 4.425 cars or 3.83 per cent of the Datsun's November market penetration was the highest ever by a foreign car, with the per-formance of the Nissan Motor Co. vehicles exceeding both those of Chrysler (U.K.) Ltd., with 7,002 registrations last month. and Vauxhall Motors Ltd., with 4.495 registrations.

So far this year, Datsun reg-istrations total 56,341, or 4.65 per cent of the market. The Japanese car has now replaced Renault as the most popular import. Registrations of the Frenchmade car totaled 4.417 last WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP). -U.S. food prices probably will rise as fast during the first six months of next year as they did this year, an Agriculture Department official predicted today.

The gloomy outlook could be even worse if poor weather curtails the harvest for the second consecutive year, department economist Dawson Ahalt told the National Agricultural Outlook conference.

This year's food prices are run-ning about 15 per cent above last year, when a record year-to-year jump occurred. Mr. Ahalt projected further rises at an annual rate of 15 per cent until next

He told a reporter before his speech that an extraordinarily good harvest of U.S. crops next per and fall could pull the final 1975 overall rise down sharply to an average closer to 10 per cent. But that would require drastic price reductions in the last three months of the year.

More Acres Farmed Earlier Kyle Randall, chairman of the department's outlook and situation board, said that farmers expect to cultivate 12 million to 16 million more acres next year, almost two-thirds of it in corn and other feed grains that are vitry and dairy products. Mr. Ahalt said that American per capita food consumption reached a record high this year, despite the higher prices that boosted the portion of income spent on food to an estimated 16.8 per cent of take-home pay on a national average, highest since 1968. Unlike the 1973 perform however, when all of the increase was due to higher food prices, part of this year's spending put more food on consumers' tables," as eating habits shifted from expensive meat to more direct crop-related foods, Mr. Ahalt "I don't think that's going to happen again. Consumption is going to slip a little next year." the economist said before his speech.

We are pleased to announce that Charles M. Rosenthal has joined our firm.

GOOD LAND YOUR BEST PROTECTION

AGAINST THE RAGING WINDS OF INFLATION! Good land has always been man's natural provider and protector, and PBL International Limited is the provider of good investment land for maximum protection against inflation. Perhaps no other investment has stayed so consistently ahead of inflation as land scientifically selected in California by PBL. You know you are safe with PBL land investments because PBL experts acientifically locate specific predeveloped parcels expressly for you. These properties are never in the desert, but always in the direct path of imminent economic expansion. Nor does PBL own the land they recommend. PBL works-only for you, the investor. You owe it to yourself and your family to protect your capital with the high return and unusual safety that has been the PBL hall-mark since the 1950's.

We think you should seriously consider the PBL capital-protection programme, and we should be pleased to send you the details. Then you can see for yourself what California sunshine really is.

Please send me your literature.

BETWEEN ME AND LIFE: A BIOGRAPHY OF ROMAINE BROOKS

By Meryle Secrest. Doubleday. 432 pp. Illustrated. $12.50

Reviewed by Anais Nin

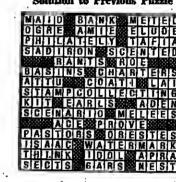

IN this biography of a highly I gifted but little known woman artist, Meryle Secrest combines locid psychological insight with empathy in a deep exploration of character and relationships. She brings into vivid life a lost segment of art history. She has the skill and power to recreate history in shimmering colors. It is unusual when a study of character probes so deeply within a human being and still paints the atmosphere around it, the life of the times.

The book is fascinating for many reasons. American-born Romaine Goddard Brooks, who died in 1970 at the age of 96, endured a nightmare childhood which would have stunted and distorted anyone else. The artist developed in spite of it. Even if, in her own words, this childhood stood "between her and life"-like an invisible fog, cooling the temperature of her loves or preventing the fullest expansion of her genius even interfering with the life impulse nevertheless, compared to the stunted lives of many modern artists today, she was involved in a rich, colorful pattern of friendships and loves with many remarkable figures of her time. The history of Natalie Barney, the American heiress, in itself was fruitful, and had as many repercussions as the central theme, of lesbian love which united her to Romaine Brooks. They were both talented, independent women who formed their own patterns of life and behavior. The fullness and many dimensions of their relationship created an intense suspense. What enhances our interest in the story of Romaine Brooks is the close, intimate view we get of her remarkable friends—the illusion of living at that tims and taking part in achievements and the despair they experience.

Robert de Montesquiou, the eccentric poet, art critic and leader of society who had inspired Proust's Baron de Charlus, admired and befriended her and called her a "Thief of Souls" because he felt that in her portraits she captured and revealed the secret, sorrowful self concealed behind the persona. Apollinaire found too much sadness and austerity in her work. Secrest suggests Romaine Brooks may have projected her own tragic imprint upon others, or it may be that her tragic life revealed to her more readily the carefully hidden scars in others.

Solution to Previous Puzzle

Jean Cocteau, Paul Morar Ida Rubinstein and D'Annun posed for her. She was at rounded all her life by significant figures, Somerset Man ham, Axel Munthe Gertra Stein, Ezra Pound, André Gic Colette, Compton Mackenzie, 8 attempted one marriage with homosexual on the assumption they could be companions believe out their own preference. It lasted barely a year.

The quest for love and fulfillment as an artist are book's major themes. As an ist she received admiration is recognition from the most of criminating minds in Europe. the quest for love, what Roma Brooks wanted, says Secrest, what she never had, a mother all-accepting love. Secrest quot.

Romaine Brooks's painting were exhibited for the first tin in America in 1971, the yes after she died in obscurity Nice. Secrest writes: "In di scribing the life of an artist on can consider the work as its ow phenomenon, separate from th life, or find its origin in the particular psychic set of the artist. She is one of the extraord nary women recently rescut from oblivion. This might is attributed to women's increasing: awareness of the need to re-write the history of woman, o to the more mysterious cause :which often obscures the work of an artist until our taste, our discernment, our comprehension. has caught up with it, explaining the cycles of eclipses, and the cycles when an artist long dead becomes a vital part of our modern consciousness. Today ve-understand much better the excruciating relationship of Remaine Brooks to her insant mother. We understand the multiple and diverse expression of love, the obstacles and complexities strending the develop ment of a woman artist.

This biography, in which the history of painting of mores, or places, of people is harmonioush-interwoven, and following the Ariadne thread of one life deept :enough, will allow us to discove many lives and imperishable : depths of experience.

BRIDGE

By Alan Truscot

Readers who fall to understand the bidding shown in the diagram are likely to form one of two erroneous theories. They might guess that North-South had a part-score, or that North had been barred from the bidding by some technical misdemeanor.

The truth is that although the game was bridge, it was not contract bridge. It was played 70 years ago, and was reported by Joseph B. Elwell, the authority on "bridge" as it was then played.

The scoring in those days was quite different. As now nine tricks in no-trump made a game, and so did 10 tricks in hearts or 11 tricks in diamonds. But the black suits counted for very little, and were rarely bid. All the bidding was by the dealer's side. The deeler would usually bid notrump or hearts, without speci-fying any number of tricks. The alternative was to pass, and let partner make the selection.

In the diagramed deal, therefore, the opening action by South was not one no-trump, but "notrump." North had no say in the matter, and would not have wished to bid the low-reaking spade suit even if he could.

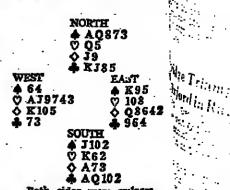

It was not necessary to bid to the limit of the hands, since you scored toward game whatever you made. So South's task was obviously to make nine tricks, and the modern reader can imagine that he is playing three no-trump.

"Fourth-best" was normal practice in those days, and indeed earlier in the days of whist. West put the heart seven on the table, and South had a straightforward problem If West held the spade king South was safe, but if East had that card there was a clear danger of losing four or five hear tricks as well as the spade kint If West held five hearts heads hy the ace, there was nothing be done. But South could di something about a six-two hear split, and did so. He played lot from dummy, and allowed East ten to win.

East continued routinely with a heart, but West's heart lengt was now usaless. When East spade king he had no more hear to play and South made 10 trick without difficulty.

Elwell failed to note in his book that East should have countered the ducking play by shifting to diamond and establishing the setting tricks in that suit. If could work out that Sooth mushave K-x-x of hearts, since D other holding would account id the play: the declarer would have played the queen from dummy this own holding was A-x-x of 9-x-x, and would have won the trick with other holdings.

Both sides were vulnera-ble. The bidding: South West North East I N.T. Pass Pass Pass West led the heart seven.

Oklahoma's ranking in the final poll, tabulated after the bowl games, will depend on Alabama's credentials following its Orange Bowl date with Notre Dama on New Year's night. Ajax players are confident of success. They are playing et home; and they feel that had their West German sweeper, Horst Blankenburg, the man whose left wing center made their winning goal in Belgrade, not been in-jured and taken off, things would have gone better in Turin. The Italians themselves are cautious, remembering what happened last season when Ajax, even without Cruyff, overwhelmed Milsn, 6-0, in the second leg of the so-called Supper Cup-winners of the European Cup against winners of the European Cupwinners' Cup-after losing by one goal at San

Altafini Dangerous

Juventus continues to do well in the Italian championship without really impressing anybody. Its 1-0 victory over Inter, in San Siro, was a valuable one. And Jose Altafini, at 36, continues to be immensely dangerous. Ajax will have to watch him closely; his burst of speed remains astonishingly unaltered.

There will be another keen me, though not too keen one hopes—in Yugoslavia, between Velez Mostar and England's sole survivors, Derby County. Derby won the first leg, 3-1, after bringing on two substitutes, Jeff Bourne and the hard-shooting winger Alan Hinton, who scored the goals that turned the tide. Muhammad Ali and host at the White House yesterday.

Ali Announces a New Goal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) - World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali called at the White House today and told President Ford he is after his job. All, who regained the title from George Foreman in Zaire two months ago, was ushered into Ford's Oval Office after being given a VIP tour of the White House. Dressed in brown suit and white shirt. All was more subdued than in most public appearances as he posed for pictures with Ford. The setting obviously had an impact on the champion, however, as he grinned at the President and said: "You made a hig mistake in letting me come because now I'm going after Ford grinned back and responded: "Ti's a great challenge. I enjoy the problems. Now we're going to get some solutions." A few days before his knockout of Foremen, Ali had com-"Why doesn't President Ford invite me to the White House?

Look at all the good I can do America. But nobody invites me to the White House." Yesterday, Ali was cheered by crowds during a motorcade in his honor in New York City. When Mayor Abe Beame told him he had always been a champion in the city, Ali replied: "The royal treatment I'm getting makes me feel like the first black president of the United States."

Congress and Rocky

By Russell Baker

NEW YORK (NYT). - The produce the forms requisite to Thunderous Futility Award for 1974 will doubtless go to the two congressional committees that spent months investigating Nelson Rockefeller and discovered that he comes from a very rich family. This is reminiscent of Molière's social climber who went in for learning in middle life and was delighted to discover that he spoke prose.

The distaste that the congressmen profess-

Baker ed for Rockefeller's habit of spending his riches to get elected was not persuasive. This year the public expects congressm to be shocked by the fact that campaigns need rich men to pay for them, although every congressman has always known it. What was genuinely shocking to them was not that he spent his money to attain public office, but that he also gave it away

And so they extracted a pledge that he would out do it any more. Thus when he becomes vice-president, the one congressional dictate by which he must abide is to cease giving people money. Rockefeller becomes the first millionaire in history to be made a tightwad by act of Congress.

for no self-serving purpose at

This suspicioo of men who give moosy away runs deep amoog congressmen. They are constantly harassing the private foundations about whom they give money to and what for.

If money is to be given away, Congress wants to do the giving; if anybody else has money to pass around, Coogress wants to relieve him of it and do the giving for him, although not usually to the people or projects of his choice. The trouble is that Congress is not a very efficient giver. Sup-pose Rockefeller had had to use Congress as an agent to pass the famous $500,000 to William famous $500,000 to William Ronan. It is doubtful that Ronan would ever have seen a cent. Out of the half-million, they would have had to hire tax collectors to pick up the money from Rockefeller, printers to the collection, clerks to process the forms and other clerks to put them in file cabinets, which would also have to be paid for from the $500,000.

A share of the money would have had to be speot to pay for meetings of both houses of Congress (salaries, heat and light bills, printing costs, dusting and brass polishing, doorkeepers, spittoon cleaning, etc.) and preliminary meetings of congressional committees.

An ageocy—the Federal Ronan Relief Administration perhaps would have had to be set op (a building, administration, lobbyists, civil servants, typewriters, vending machines automobiles). New forms in quadruplicate would have had to be created, on which Ronan could make application, submit certification and explain his business, family life and intentions for use of the money. Lawyers would have had to be hired to examine the completed documents for compliance with the will of Congress. Most likely, of course, Congress, after collecting the $500,000 from Rockefelier would regard Ronan as not a very pressing national obligation. Seventy per cent of the $500,000 would almost surely he diverted to the Pentagon to redoce a cost overrum on military file cabinets, and 25 per cent would be allocated to social services in order to quiet the lobbies who are always asking why the Pentagon always gets all the money. The remaining 5 per cent would not suffice to pay the costs of the new Federal Ronan Relief Administration. Thus, not only would Ronan be left without a cent, but Congress would also have to raise taxes to cover the deficit,

In the end, Rockefeller's money would have been used up to pay the government to give it away for him, and both he and Ronan would have to pay increased taxes to help the government not get any of the original sum from Rockefeller to Ronan.

Absurd? Yes, and it is the way government works. It is no wonder the congressmen were shocked to find Rockefeller simply giving it away. A precedent like that, if allowed to stand, could wipe out the government,

From the Bettmann Archive comes this picture of Cornelius Vanderbilt fr. and his sister Gladys who were among "the few."

Good Old Days-'Pure Bunk'

By Terry Ryan

NEW YORK (AP).—The good old days were . . . terrible, says Otto Bettmann. social historian and founder of the Bettmann Archive.

With illustrations from the archive's collection of old prints and photographs to make his points, Bettmann argues in a new book that nostalgia has warped the popular view of America's past.

Among other things, he notes:

There were three million horses in U.S. cities at the turn of the century. Tha 15,000 horses in Rochester, N.Y., produced enough manure in a year to cover an acre of ground with a layer 175 feet deep. • In 1890, the police commissioner of New York said there were 40,000 prostitutes in the city.

• In 1882, the designer of New York's Central Park recommended its closing after dark because of crime.

New York State Assemblyman Teddy

Roosevelt branded as "communistic" the demand of streetcar drivers for a 12-hour work day. They were working 16-hour days for $12 a week. • In the 1880s, close to 40 per cent of

II.S. farmers owned oeither house nor land. They were tenant farmers. About 50 per cent of the income of city families went On Feb. 22, 1898, F.B. Baker, a black man, was lynched at Lake City. S.C. He had accepted the job of postmaster. Only 20 per cent of the students in the teacher-training schools of the 1890s had high school diplomas. In 1903, only 18 cities in the United States had public playgrounds of any sort. In 1905, a public health engineer in Glasgow coined the word "smog" to describe the condition of the air "It is a mechanism of our psyche to forget all the bad things that happened in the old days," said Bettmann. "We look at the little trimmings of the time, but not the essential cruelties and hardships." Bettmann, 71, was born in Germany and received his doctorate from the University of Leipzig after majoring in art and social history. He came to the United States in 1935 with two steamer trunks full of old pictures. There are now three million items in the archive's picture library, including a substantial collection of old-time

His book deals with what has been called America's Gilded Age, the era from the end of the Civil War to the beginning of World War L It is titled, "The Good Old Days—They were Terrible!"

It is, Bettmann said, "a personal attempt to redeem our times from the aspersions cast upon them by nostalgic comparisons." The Gay Nineties were gay, Bettmann said, but only for the privileged few. It was also a time, he said, when a sweatshop seamstress made $7 for an 34-hour week, when locusts obliterated the entire harvest of the Dakotas in a single day, and when thousands of families lived in tarpaper boxes on the Pennsylvania coal-

Bettmann poted that children then made up one-third of the labor force in mills, heroin was sold as cough medicine and teaching jobs in Philadelphia were secured by payment of $120 to the local political bosses.

"But we always measure our own times against the higher class which lived very beautifully," Bettmann said. "It is all promoted by the nostalgis industry. As story, nostalgia is pure bunk."

By measuring the present against glorified image of the past, he said, we cause our own times to appear much worse than they are. "Even if we cast but a cursory glance at the not so good old days and bring them into alignment with our own, we will find much to be grateful

For almost every complaint of today. Bettmann offers anecdotes and statistics to show how much worse things were in the good old days. The message is carried visually by old magazine and book illustrations, political cartoons and early photo-

If teachers complain now of unruly students, they might consider the fate of Etta Barstow, a schoolteacher in Canton, Mass. She kept four boys after school on Oct. 8, 1870. They stoned her to death. If youth gangs are a problem now in some cities, they were then also. New York had the Gophers, the Molasses Gang and the Bowery Boys.

If traffic is a hazard now, consider the report of the U.S. National Safety Council: The horse-associated fatality rate of the last century was 10 times as great as the motor vehicle fatality rate of modern

"We are, in a way, a little spoiled now." Bettmann said. "In the olden days, people did not expect much. They thought hardship was part of life. Now people want everything absolutely perfect, painless and

PEOPLE: Freed From Prison -After 66 Years

Johnson Vandyke Grigsby left the Indiana State Prison Monday after setting what may be a record for imprisonment—66 years. "I feel like I've just been born," said Grigsby. "I'm going out so glad." He is not sure of his birthday but says he is 89 or 90. He began serving a life sentence on Aug. 5, 1908, after being found guilty of second-degree murder in a saloon fight. The Guinness Book of Records lists Richard Honeck, sentenced in 1899 and released in 1963, as having been in prison longer than anyone else -64 years. A prison organization is trying to get Grigsby recognized as the record holder.

"We Kiss Every Stone in Odessa" was the headline. The story was about Annets and Josif Shkiyar-it appeared in the Sovietskaya Rossiya newspaper Tuesday. They told how they had fled to the United States, the "alien world," to return to the Soviet Union, after only three months. It was the first time in recent years, according to the Associated Press, that the Soviet press had published a story involving people who had returned to the Soviet Union after emi-grating to the United States. The U.S. Embassy in Moscow has a record of the Shkiyars re-ceiving visas on Aug. 27 to join an aunt listed as Julia Coopersmith of Narbergia Pa. The newspaper characteristic the Shklyars relative "rather rich" with a suburber thome and several cars. Both weot to work only to find, they said that "in the United States everyone lives by oneself and for oneself. Everything, even rela-tions between people, is decided by money." Deciding to return home, the couple wrote to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, and, without waiting for an answer, took a flight back to Moscow. When they came down the ramp, the Shklyars told frontier guards, "Detain us, we fled from the United States and came to the Soviet Union illegally."

When Arthur Reed finally quit his job at the foundry this year, it wasn't his fault. "Pig Iron Arthur," as he's known at the Oakland (Calif.) Phoenix Iron Works, was hospitalized about the time of his last birthday (in June) and has now been forced to retire. At age 114. "Tve worked hard, hard," Reed said. looking back on a 105-year career. He was born in 1860 in Buffalo, N.Y., started working at age 9.
